

SARGEANT TOAST

From the shores of Georgian Bay where the Moon meets the woody bay gitchie manitou ordered his people to stay at the Fittons on the third Sunday of October in the 1650th year:
to celebrate the order of good chear.

Jim and Judy dunn quickly agreed to join the fun Belle and Mike came all the way from toronto to be at the bay the Sargeants have long been around and at the party they would be found Brenda White was a renter on the bay but they wanted let to come anyway the Tilleys lived across the way and they attended to share the day the fittons ~~and~~ <sup>and the</sup> gillies and ~~mary~~ marg were the host to the party they gave the most the fittons had just finished their new abode and it was to their place that they road they came in their boats and landed around any place on the island that could be found the order was made that they should dress up when they came to the island to drink and sup they whined and complained and made a big fuss and then they were told they couldn't cuss so they put on their finery, such as it was and greeted each other with many hugs and were very graceful there weren't many bugs firstly they established an order for proceeding and all areed to start with drinking they had brought their own brew, spirits and wine and all the drinks were judged to be fine they told each other all their tall tales the fish were said to be the size of wales and lept right into the holding pails the sailors said said the wind was so strong nothing they did could go wrong the golfers never shot over par the balls would hole out from afar the paddlers in their kayaks dipped left and right and challenged the river with all their might the walkers along the road they strode without fear of the bear on the road the swimmers were necessarily bold as they jumped into the water, always cold as they told their stories around the bar they knew from the bay they could never stray far they began to serve the food that they brought and everyone enjoyed what they got the fittons and gillies did the first course their appetizers were a gourmet tour de force in between each fabulous food bit the guests would entertain each other with wit and songs and poems and a skits the very best of cottage hits the soup was provided by mike and bell the taste was absolutely swell the sargeants and dunn's brought the tortiere the pork and the spices were all in there the hosts provided the turkey, brenda bought the rice the gillies the veggies, everything was very very nice Mary Margaret did a suprise dish the very taste was just bliss the dunn's and tilleys brought dessert squares a fitting finish at the end of the fares gitchie manitu took a look in at the order of good chear and was noted to be approvin of the order of good chear and ordered it be done again next year
